Lazio, or Latium in Latin, is the cradle of the Roman empire and is incredibly rich in outstandingly well-preserved relics from different periods from its long history. This part of Italy is highly sought after not solely for Rome, the metropolitan capital of Italy (also known as The Eternal City), but also for Vatican City (also known as The Holy See) and its many wonderful museums. Other important cities are Frosinone, Latina, Viterbo and Rieti - all worth a visit.,

No other city can match Rome's unique blend of historic, cultural, religious, political and artistic attractions. Its palaces, ancient ruins, sun splashed piazzas and graceful fountains have inspired visitors from all over the world. The Eternal City has so much to offer and hiring a local guide is the best way to cover as much as possible during your stay. Anyway, no matter how you decide to plan your visit, when in Rome, do as the Romans do!
