Description

Wonderful and authentic property from the 17th century with 6 en-suite rooms, traditional interior, Hammam, big terrace with view over the medina, close to the city centre

Dar Saaha is one of the oldest houses in Marrakech restored authentically and contains elements from the 17th century. This house is the only one that has a tower that offers a direct view over the medina. The property presents a wide variety of places with a strong and charming character.

Internally with it's Moroccan style, the living room is the ideal place to gather for tea or to rest with your loved ones. It has wide sofas, dim lights, and you will appreciate the calm of this room.
The ceilings and doors of the summer lounge, as well as the carved elements above the doors are original.
Each bedroom is spacious and corresponds to a living room of the old house. The rooms are all en-suite with private shower room/bath.
Guests can relax in the Hammam of the property

Out side Dar Saaha's style is an expression of Islamic culture. Restored according to the plans of the past, the house has a patio composed of arched galleries and arcades. In the centre, you will find a fountain, like the paradise.
The large roof / terrace extends over several levels. It is possible to take meals under the tent of the terrace. While going on the qadi tower, at the level of the minarets, you will see the central districts of Marrakech, perfect to listen to the noise of the neighbouring souks and to see the smoke of the place Jema el Fna. This is a perfect way to experience the style of life within a luxury environment in Marrakech
